CATCH DATE JAN 21 - FEB 21

WHY CATCH DATE IS IMPORTANT

FRESHEST FROZEN FISH

To Keep Your Customers Happy

For the best flavour and juiciest texture, we recommend serving fish as close as possible to the catch date. This ensures it is as fresh as the day it was caught.

WHAT IS A CATCH DATE?

A catch date refers to the month the fish was caught, processed and frozen.

FROZEN AT SEA

Frozen At Sea (FAS) fish and seafood have been frozen within hours of being caught. The products are cleaned, processed, and frozen on the vessel that caught them, helping to retain the maximum nutritional benefits.

BENEFITS OF FAS

- ✓ Premium: Sustainable quality all year round
- ✓ Traceable: Our fish are fully traceable back to the producer
- ✓ Healthier: Freezing retains nutritional content
- ✓ Sustainable: Transported using lower carbon methods

LINE CAUGHT

Our fish are wild caught, which means they feed on a natural diet and have been caught using the hook and line method which helps to promote a better-quality product with minimal environmental impact.

ICELANDIC

Iceland has an incredible 200-mile exclusive fishing zone, which includes some of the richest fishing grounds in the world. Icelandic fish is sustainably sourced from pure waters, prepared to the highest standards – that's why many of our customers specifically ask for Icelandic; it's natural, sustainable and wild caught.

Award-winning chippy Hirds Family Fisheries says that online ordering has been vital during the lockdown, both for safety and efficiency.

Adam has won multiple awards for his extensive menu, which includes tasty homemade pies and popular chorizo fries, in addition to fish and chips.

But not knowing what customers are going to order can create queues of people waiting for food.

"Online ordering prevents people grouping outside the shop. It keeps customers and staff safe", he says.

"This has worked out better for us because we know what people are ordering in advance, so we can have it ready when they turn up."

With a regularly changing menu, it's important to be able to update the website quickly.

"It's great to be able to make changes myself," says Adam. "But with a busy shop to run, it's even better when the FOODit team helps. Whatever I need - they get it done fast", he says.
